Testimony of Kimberly McCullough, Legislative Director
Proposed Ordinance Regarding Public Financing of Portland Elections
Portland City Council – December 14, 2016 – Item No. S-1409 (Previously S-1370)

Mayor Hales and Commissioners:

The ACLU of Oregon supports Item No. S-1409 (Previously S-1370), which creates a public financing program for elections of the mayor, commissioners, and the auditor of the City of Portland. The ACLU of Oregon strongly supports public financing of candidate election campaigns as a way to address the financial barriers in mounting a race for elected office and to counter the influence of wealthy special interests in elections.<sup>1</sup> Public campaign financing also enhances the accountability of public officials to general voters, as they are thereby less obliged to the interests of high-dollar contributors.

In evaluating public financing proposals and laws, the ACLU of Oregon looks to see that the following criteria are met:

- Public funds are equally available to all candidates who meet an objective measure of existing political support;
- Candidates are given a truly voluntary choice to participate; and
- The program provides sufficient funding to mount an effective, competitive campaign;
- The program avoids intrusive or inequitable government regulation or overly burdensome record keeping.

We are pleased to see that the current proposal meets each of these requirements. We also appreciate that the proposal creates a commission which will make recommendations for adjustments to improve the operation of the public finance program over time. This will allow for ongoing changes as they are needed to maintain Portland's public financing system for the long term.

Thank you for your time and consideration. Please feel free to contact me if you have questions or concerns.

<sup>1</sup> The election of public officials is an essential aspect of a free society and the integrity of the electoral process is of critical concern. The ACLU of Oregon also deeply values other civil liberties values—particularly freedom of expression and association—that are sometimes threatened by election campaign reforms. We believe the appropriate response is to expand the resources and venues available for political advocacy, while increasing transparency through campaign finance disclosure requirements. This is why we wholeheartedly support fair and effective public financing systems as an expansion of resources that does not simultaneously limit civil liberties.

Testimony on Open & Accountable Elections
December 12, 2016

Good afternoon Mayor Hales, Commissioners,

For the record, my name is Kate Titus. I am here on behalf of Common Cause, and on behalf of a coalition of over 30 local organizations, representing Portland's diverse communities and community public interests. Thank you for your responsiveness on this issue that's of growing concern to so many of our communities here in Portland.

Briefly, I want to affirm the strength of this ordinance and the proposed amendments before you.

Core Policy

First, with regard to the policy as a whole: Open & Accountable Elections is based on a well-tested model, already operational in several other communities. Since others have pioneered this, Portland will not be charting unknown territory. There's already an established body of expertise that has informed this ordinance, and will guide rulemaking and implementation. Moreover, this policy has already proven itself as a tool to achieve three outcomes we seek here in Portland:

- 1) To increase and diversify community participation in elections;
- 2) To support a broader candidate pool and more representative government;
- 3) To make it possible for any candidate to opt out of big-money politics, if they choose.

Proposed Amendments

We are supportive of the proposed amendments worked out in recent weeks to address oversight and administration of the program. First, we are comfortable with ONI housing this program. There may come a point, where the Commission chooses to revisit this, a point at which it could make sense to move administration to another location such as the auditor's office or even the state election's division. However for the immediate start-up and foreseeable future, we believe that housing this program under ONI provides advantages, particularly for launching an effective community oversight commission.

I also want to affirm the specific solutions proposed to address potential conflicts of interest related to placing oversight and administration of the program at ONI. To be clear, we would have to insulate against conflicts of interest regardless of where this program is housed. Oversight of all aspects of our election system, across the country, is generally handled by elected public servants. We can't completely avoid this issue. Instead, we need to take steps to insulate against the specific conflicts of interest created by any given arrangement. In this case, we believe that smart precautions have been identified.

By engaging a community board in the process of identifying and making any changes to the program, and requiring all administrative rules be brought before full commission for consideration, you create a healthy process for public input and transparent deliberation, and limit the authority of the Commissioner in charge of ONI. Likewise, providing for dual oversight of the Open & Accountable Elections program within ONI, during an election where the Commissioner in charge of ONI is running for election, provides a good safeguard to protect ONI staff independence. In addition, I would suggest that the board could also appoint an alternative investigatory body to replace ONI Open & Accountable Election staff, if and whenever there are complaints specific to the election of the Commissioner in charge of ONI, but that is something that can be worked out in rulemaking.

Other Priorities

Lastly, I want to briefly reaffirm 3 priorities, which will need to be addressed in rulemaking:

- 1) All of us here are committed to find a way to ensure that all Portland residents – if they are eligible under state and federal law to contribute to political campaigns – should be allowed and encouraged to participate in this system by having their campaign contributions matched, up to the first $50. This includes even those who are not registered to vote, or who are legal residents but not yet citizens. We want to welcome all Portlanders to have a voice in the democratic process. As yet, we have only identified the voter file as the means to verify people’s authentic eligibility. We will need to identify one or more additional methods to ensure full inclusivity, within the bounds of the law.
- 2) The current proposal provides that a single donor can give a matched contribution to no more than one candidate. I believe what’s really at stake here is that those contributors with greater capacity to give should not be able to tap public funds for multiple $50 gifts. However, in principal, if a contributor wanted to split their $50 (or even $20) between 2 candidates, that seems within the democratic spirit intended, and should not be discouraged. While I don’t suggest delaying the bill to address this now, I do suggest that this is an adjustment that should be considered during the implementation phase.
- 3) Let’s not forget the importance of making sure that this program is intuitive and easy to understand for candidates and contributors alike. To that end, it will be important during rulemaking and start-up to make sure all systems and materials are clear and accessible, and that there is a well-developed candidate training and public education component in place as an integral part of the program.

Commissioner Fritz, thank you for your leadership, championing Open & Accountable Elections. Commissioner Novick, Mayor Hales, thank you for exploring this issue more deeply, working with Commissioner Fritz and the broader community to develop the proposal before us today. And to all of you, thank you for your responsiveness here today.

Portlanders from all communities are looking to you for your leadership. I hope we can count on each of you for your vote next week.

COMMENTS ON PUBLIC FUNDING OF ELECTIONS PROPOSAL
released November 3, 2016

by Dan Meek
dan@meeek.net
December 7, 2016

The key to a successful public funding plan is to provide funds in a way that does not allow participating candidates to be overwhelmed by private contributors or independent spenders.

The discussion below elaborates on the points I offered to the City Council on November 3, based on the draft of the Open and Accountable Elections Policy (OAEP) made available that day. I was able to obtain a copy of the revised draft on November 6. I do not see any changes to the proposed ordinance that address my concerns.

The November 3 draft is weaker than the systems in place in other cities and states. Here are the reasons.

1. The OAEP imposes no limits on contributions to privately-funded candidates.

I am not aware of any other public funding system in which there are no limits on contributions received by privately-funded candidates who do not take part in the public funding. The New York City system imposes the same contribution limits on privately-funded candidates as on participating candidate. The Arizona and Maine and South Dakota systems have limits on private contributions.

The absence of such limits in the OAEP makes it far more likely that participating candidate will be financially overwhelmed by privately-funded candidates.

Limits on contributions to privately-funded candidates in Oregon could well be upheld, in light of Vannatta v. Oregon Government Ethics Commission, 347 Or 449 (2009). Multnomah County Measure 26-184 has already adopted such limits. The OAEP should also do so, with a severability clause.

2. The OAEP imposes absolute limits on total contributions to and spending by participating candidates.

The participating candidate for mayor is prohibited from receiving in contributions or spending more than $380,000 in the primary and $570,000 in the general election. Limits on participating candidates for Council or Auditor are $250,000 in the primary and $300,000 in the general.

The OAEP would require participating candidates to shut down their fundraising operations and websites and emails, upon qualifying for the maximum amount of public funding.

I am not aware of any other public funding system that imposes aggregate limits on what a participating candidate can raise from private sources, provided that she complies with all limits on the size of contributions from individuals and entities. There are, of course, limits on the amounts of public funding provided and limits per contribution from individuals and entities.

As long as a participating candidate raises additional non-matched funds from small donors (say, $50 per person), I see no threat to democracy or fairness. And, in the absence of limits on what privately-funded candidates can receive, prohibiting participating candidates from raising even small contributions makes the prospect of being overwhelmed even more likely.

3. The OAEP's solution to big private contributions and spending seems unworkable.

The OAEP lifts the fundraising and spending limit from participating candidates, if one or more of that candidate's opponents exceeds a certain spending limit. That appears to be unworkable solution, for several reasons.

First, it still requires the participating candidate to shut down all fundraising upon reaching the maximum level, if no privately-funded candidate exceed that level. I see no reason to penalize a participating candidate who is able to attract small donations from additional persons and who may be running against other participating candidates.

Second, even if a privately-funded candidate exceeds the maximum level, that event may well occur late in a campaign, particularly since the privately-funded candidates can time her receipt of large contributions in order to avoid the trigger until the final very few weeks. In the meantime, the OAEP requires the participating candidate to have shut down her fundraising operations upon qualifying for the full amount of public funding. So this solution will likely result in the participating candidate doing some fundraising, then shutting it down, then (at best) restarting it late in the campaign. This will no doubt confuse potential donors, who will go to the participating candidate's website and see "I cannot receive any more contributions from any source" for perhaps several months during the campaign. Those potential donors are unlikely to continue checking the website to see if the prohibition has been lifted.

4. The OAEP's solution to big private contributions and spending might offend the current doctrines of the United States Supreme Court.

Due to the election of Donald Trump, we will very likely have to live with the current doctrines of the United States Supreme Court on political campaign financing.

Lifting contribution limits for a candidates, if a privately-funded opponent raises or spends more than a certain amount, was struck down by the United States Supreme Court in Davis v. FEC, 554 US 724, 128 SCt 2759 (2008). There, federal law raised contribution limits for any candidate opposed by a person who spent more than $350,000 on her own campaign for the U.S. House of Representatives. The Court ruled that raising that limit amounted to a penalty on the self-funding candidate who "robustly exercises that First Amendment right . . . to engage in unfettered political speech." That rationale would appear to invalidate the OAEP's solution here.

But the Davis v. FEC opinion was couched in terms that the "Millionaire's Amendment" imposed lower contribution limits on the self-funded candidate than on the non-self-funding opponent. Under the OAEP, as written, there would be no limits on contributions at all for the privately-funded candidates, so (I would argue) the Davis v. FEC rationale is not directly applicable.

The solution never struck down by the United States Supreme Court is imposing the same contribution limits on participating candidates and on privately-funded candidates, as is done in the New York City program.

5. The OAEP offers no solution to big private independent expenditures that overwhelm the publicly-funded candidate.

The OAEP does not lift the aggregate limit on fundraising and spending by the participating candidate, no matter how much is spend by independent spenders against the participating candidate or supporting one or more opponents of the participating candidate. It is likely that independent expenditures will become the dominant funding source in opposition to participating candidates, because no amount of independent expenditures result in allowing the participating candidate to raise or spend any additional funds.

At a minimum, the OAEP should adopt the same solution for large independent expenditures that it adopts for large spending by privately-funded candidates.

6. The OAEP should require taglines on advertisements by privately-funded candidates or by independent expenditures.

Limiting independent expenditures will also run into barriers at the Trump Court. Multnomah County Measure 26-184 includes such limits.

But there are other ways to counter the effect of large independent expenditures.

The Court has never struck down the requirement that paid political advertisements identify their sources of funding. Several states have this requirement in one form or another, including California, Maine, Washington, and now South Dakota. Multnomah County Measure 26-184, adopted November 2016 by a vote of 90-10%, requires that all ads in Multnomah County candidate races identify the top 5 large funders, as does the law in Maine and the new law adopted by South Dakota voters in November 2016.

At a minimum, the OAEP should adopt the tagline requirements of Measure 26-184.

7. The OAEP should provide that the Voters' Pamphlet for city elections identify privately-funded candidates and their sources of funding and whether they are benefitting from independent expenditures.

There is nothing preventing the City from requiring that its Voters' Pamphlet state which candidates are privately-funded or which are benefitting from independent expenditures. The paper edition could also list each such candidate's largest contributions and largest supporting independent spenders, with updates appearing in the online version of the Voters' Pamphlet.

Or the privately-funded candidate's page in the Voters' Pamphlet could include this legend: "Candidate chose to be eligible to receive contributions of unlimited size from all sources, including corporations and unions."

In the alternative, the Voters' Pamphlet could simply provide for no statements by privately-funded candidates, except those who agree to comply with contribution limits.

Testimony from City Council meeting of November 3, 2016
Ann Littlewood
2915 NE 21st Avenue
Portland, OR 97212

My name is Ann Littlewood. I've lived in Portland most of my life—a good many decades—on the eastside. I've always tried to be informed about my city—I read the news, I vote, I talk to candidates that come to the door, I make contributions.

My contributions were small potatoes until about two years ago when I accidentally entered my Visa security code in the amount field for an online campaign donation. It wasn't a huge amount, but apparently it was enough. Ever since, candidates call me to chat and to hear my views.

But what I want to tell you today is this: I never once thought of running for office.

Now and then I'd wonder why people would do the hard work, put up with the aggravation, and drain their bank accounts to get elected. Like everyone else, I am quick to criticize, but not so fast to step up.

When I looked at this campaign finance reform measure, it finally occurred to me that it really ought to be possible for anyone with the starch to run for office, including people who haven't got access to big donations and people who represent the diversity of Portland.

I've been persuaded that this is a tested, practical approach that can work for Portland and that it will open a space for voices that really should not be so hard to hear in our political discourse.

We all know that our national politics are not very representative and are in gridlock. Change will have to come from the bottom up. Let's be part of that process. Let Portland help show the way. Please pass the Open and Accountable Elections.

Subject: Open and Accountable Elections

Dear Mayor Hales and Commissioners:

I would like to express my strong support for the proposed Open and Accountable Elections Policy before you. If 84% of Americans believe money has too much influence on the outcome of political campaigns and 87% of us would like to see our elections system reformed so rich people don't have greater influence than a person without financial resources (Bloomberg poll), then it is probably safe to assume these concerns are shared by Portlanders as well. Or perhaps money is only playing an oversized role in the politics of other places and not here in the City of Roses.

However, Sightline has documented that only 600 donors provided 60% of total contributions in our 2012 Portland elections, so it is clear that action is needed here, and soon, if we ever hope to become the more equitable city described in our Comprehensive Plan. We pride ourselves on being a place of innovation and have provided leadership for the rest of the country on a number of issues. Yet jurisdictions within 17 other states from West Virginia to Hawaii have already adopted small donor campaign strategies to reform their election systems. Yes, we have tried a version of this before and we have learned from our prior efforts and after a very close referendum vote, we turned away from that system.

Today we have the opportunity to mount a new, carefully researched approach, in place for decades in New York City. At least on this issue, we can aspire to be more like NYC where candidates are now reaching out to more neighborhoods and community groups and engaging more residents in dialogue about what their government's priorities should be. Without this type of reform, our candidates, those who can afford to run, will be forced to continue to focus an unduly large portion of their time and energy on going where the money is. This means much less time being spent exploring the rich mosaic of concerns and opinions that make up our city.

Although I strongly support the proposal, I do have two questions regarding the costs of the plan. First, what additional FTE will be required in the Auditor's office to track and manage the receipts, donations, and details of the system? Second, given the amount in the general fund fluctuates from year to year, how will the $.02 per cent of the fund be calculated and will the amount in the campaign matching fund be adjusted on an annual basis?

Thank you for your consideration of this very important issue.

Sincerely,

November 3rd 2016

Good Afternoon Mayor Hales, Commissioners Fritz, Saltzman, Fish and Novick

My name is Jo Ann Hardesty, and today I wear my hat as President, NAACP Portland Branch. The NAACP and a community coalition representing over 30- organizations that reflects and inclusive Portland. We represent communities of color, youth, elders, small business owners and community-based leaders that collectively represent every corner of our great city.

Today, we celebrate the 102nd year of the NAACP Portland Branch, the oldest continuously operating branch west of the Mississippi, and in less than 2-hours we will honor that long legacy of multiracial and multicultural and multigenerational cooperation and collaboration to eliminate racial hatred and racial discrimination in the Portland Metro area. As the President, I have many things I need to do today to make this evenings reception a success.

I am here now because this issue is at the heart of our democracy, the people's ability to run and serve in public office and to believe their financial contribution, no matter how small, matters. I am here to ask you to unanimously support this proven system of public financing for city council elections and to use your pulpit to educate the public on the necessity of this system and why voting this measure into law is vital.

When I ran for office there were campaign and donor limits in place. I could only raise $100 per person/business with a maximum of $25,000. I spent a lot of time on the doorsteps, talking with people who could also vote for me. It made a huge impact on me and the voters I talked too. They felt they were in the election with me. That system was only in place for one election cycle but I have no doubt without it I wouldn't have been elected to serve as a state representative in the Oregon House of Representatives.

The last couple of times I testified in this building were difficult. As an activist it is my job to provide you with my perspective on critical public policy decisions, as my elected representative it is your job to take my input into consideration, along with many others, and sometimes it doesn't always turn out as I would like.

As is the case with policy, today's another day. Today I stand united with 30 diverse organizations, many you will hear from later today to encourage you to be courageous and intentional. This is an opportunity for us to join together in a common vision of Portland City Hall that is open for all regardless of your zip code, gender, age, social-economic status, etc. The public finance system before you today is proven effective at engaging diverse communities in the democratic process. After this election season ends many will believe today's election system is broken and only works for a very small number of people and they won't be all wrong. Our coalition represents 1,000's of Portlanders who believe City Hall should represent all Portlanders—and we elect our leadership to lead—not pass the buck—because you know intimately what it takes today to run and serve on this council. You know the barriers others face. Mayor Hales stated he decided to spend this year being mayor, rather than running for mayor when asked why he wasn't running for re-election, that statement stayed with me. Ironically only two African Americans and six women have ever served on Portland City Council. Your vote can move us towards that vision of a city council that reflects all the riches Portland has to offer and an opportunity for regular folks to believe they have a role in their democracy! Thank You!

If you're done by 4:30PM please join the NAACP at Portland Prime where our celebration will be held

Thank you for the opportunity to speak on this item. I will start by saying I support the goals of having more competitive elections and more inclusive campaigns. I know that this issue has been a priority for Commissioner Fritz, and I respect the advocate community for its dedication in putting together a proposal that levels the playing field.

I also appreciate Commissioner Fritz's acknowledgment that there is no intent to place the program in my office in light of my objections. But I do want to take this opportunity to explain my position.

I understand why the Auditor's Office may seem like the natural home for the program, but unfortunately, my office does not have the capacity to take it. I do not have a management structure in place that could absorb additional programs and do them justice.

My staff's time and resources are already spoken for among performance audits, police oversight and the various other accountability and transparency functions. I could not devote the proper resources to the proposed program without shortchanging my existing responsibilities.

I also have concerns about the program's design. The aggressive timetable and insufficient funding make it unlikely the proposed program could be successfully implemented. The proposal envisions being fully operational by July 1st, with the collection of "seed money" and receipt of in-kind donations as early as the end of this month. Yet, as the Budget Office notes in its fiscal impact analysis, there is no funding for this program in the current year. The proposal also does not provide the necessary funding to fulfill the management, legal, investigative and administrative needs of the program in the out years.

There also are a couple of things in the proposal that are problematic for my office no matter which entity ultimately is responsible for the program. It sends disputes to the Hearings Office for resolution, which presents a conflict-of-interest because it is in the Auditor's Office.

The second issue is that it potentially duplicates work done by the Secretary of State's Office by requiring voluminous documents to also be filed with the Elections Officer in my office, unnecessarily adding to her workload.

***

You may recall that the City's first attempt at publicly funded campaigns – which was a joint effort by Commissioner Erik Sten and Auditor Gary Blackmer – was undermined by fraud and ended when the electorate voted to discontinue the program. For those reasons alone, the City has no room for error in a successor program. It must be tightly managed and closely monitored.

Notwithstanding the stated intent to place the program elsewhere, I think it's important to make clear why Council needs my consent before it could assign the program to my office.

For those who are not familiar, the Auditor's Charter-mandated duties include performance of audits, maintenance of official records, provision of official certifications, and supervision of City elections. Each of these Charter-mandated duties take their meanings from corresponding sections of Charter.<sup>1</sup> According to Charter, Council may only assign other duties if the Auditor consents.<sup>2</sup> Programs within my office by consent include the Independent Police Review, Ombudsman and the Hearings Office.

The supervision of City elections is a confined mandate. It is described in Chapter 3 of the Charter. Chapter 3 lays out the nomination procedure for elective offices, the term for holding office, and the timing of primary and general elections. In essence: the indispensable elements of City elections. Charter does not contemplate the supervision of elections as involving campaign financing or other discretionary programs related to elections.

My reading of Charter is consistent with how the Oregon Supreme Court treated analogous language in the state Constitution. In a 1997 case, the Supreme Court determined that based on the text, context and historical circumstances, the word "elections" in the state Constitution did not include campaign financing.

In summary, I am not in a position to assure Portlanders that implementation of the proposal would be successful and fraud risks could be controlled. For those reasons, I cannot offer my consent. And while I recognize that language was added intending to allow the City to contract out the administration of the program, I am still concerned that the proposal effectively assigns my office the responsibility. To avoid any confusion, I am asking that Council strike the definition of Auditor in the proposal and any subsequent references naming my office as responsible for its implementation.

Thank you.

Open and Accountable Elections Reform

Testimony for 11/3/16 from:

Kayse Jama
Executive Director, Unite Oregon

I am here on behalf of Unite Oregon and a community coalition of over 30 organizations. The coalition represents a wide range of Portlanders (communities of color, immigrants & refugees, people of all income levels, youth, elders, small business owners, and more...) Through the City of Portland's Diversity and Civic Leadership program and other initiatives, you and others before you have set a precedent for building up the civic engagement expertise of thousands of diverse Portlanders'.

I can think of a number of graduates of Unite Oregon's PILOT program alone who, if given an equitable playing field, would consider pursuing a position of leadership in our City government. Only Open and Accountable Election would remove the very real barriers that wealth, knowledge of systems, or connections to major donors present to many people of color, immigrants and refugees. Portland (and Oregon) has supported election reforms historically (Vote-By-Mail, Modernized Voter Registration, Voter Owned Election).

Open and Accountable Elections is the logical next step to open opportunities for our community leaders. Open and Accountable Elections has proven to be effective in several other cities around the country. We know this works. We look to you, our elected officials for the leadership to get this done. We want you to respond to us, your constituents, and work on how to get this done.

Sincerely,

Kayse Jama
Executive Director, Unite Oregon

Thank you for the opportunity to testify. I am Susan Mottet and I am from Every Voice, a national organization dedicated to passing and implementing small donor funded election reform.

It is hard to deny that money in politics creates a problem at the federal level and even federal elected officials are conceding that point, though nearly all say that they personally are not influenced by money in politics. However, I find that many state and local officials say that money in politics isn't a problem at their level of government, and I have yet to meet a state or local official who will admit that money in politics influences any of their decisions.

Kristin Eberhard from the Sightline Institute reviewed the data that shows that Portland's democracy is out of balance when it comes to key measures of money in politics, so I won't repeat her data. I have something different to share. Because Every Voice did polling in Oregon in November of last year, I can share how Portlanders perceive money in politics in their own backyards.

Portland respondents revealed the following:

1. 81% of Portlanders believe that the middle class is struggling because politicians rig the rules of the economy – including taxes.
2. 81% believe that unless we change the way elections are funded, elected officials will work for large donors.
3. 72% say they support “new laws that control the way political campaigns can raise and spend money.”
4. 70% of Portlanders believe candidates receiving limited public matching funds after agreeing to take no large contributions is an effective way to clean up politics.

Thirty-two localities and states have small donor funded elections programs. These programs can increase and diversify participation in democracy, so that the participation by donors, voters, and elected officials reflects the diversity of the jurisdiction and brings residents back into the center of the democracy.

New York City's program, which is a 6:1 match on small contributions, is very similar to the Open and Accountable Elections Act. It gets results:

- It increased the number of neighborhoods that contributed to campaigns from 30% to 90%.
- It increased the diversity of the donor base. Donations from predominantly Latino neighborhoods are 13 times higher, 24 times higher from African-American neighborhoods, and 23 times from Asian-American neighborhoods.
- It enabled candidates without access to networks of wealth to win elected office. The first African-American woman to ever win citywide office, Tish James, credits the program with her ability to win for this reason.
- It increased racial and gender diversity in elected office. NYC elected its first African-American Mayor and its first African American woman to citywide office, both of whom used the program to win. For the first time, a majority of New York City Councilmembers are from communities of color, just like the population of NYC.

Data collected in other places reinforce that small donor funded elections programs increase and diversify participation. In Arizona, donations from Latino neighborhoods and those from neighborhoods with the highest poverty levels increased dramatically under their Clean Elections program, in closer alignment with state demographics.

I see there is an open question about which office should administer the program in Portland. I can tell you what other jurisdictions do. Many are administered by the elections office, such as Seattle and New Mexico. Montgomery County, Maryland, is using their Director of Finance to administer the program, with a citizen commission to recommend how much money to appropriate annually. Many jurisdictions create new or utilize existing commissions to administer the program, including New York City, Arizona, Maine, and Connecticut. All are five-member commissions appointed by elected officials. Regardless of who is responsible for administration, it is not unusual for cities to enter an inter-governmental agreements with counties for implementation functions.

There is a wide range of administration options available to Portland. Every Voice would be happy to consult with Portland officials on options, as well as connect whichever agency implements with technical assistance, so Portland has access to the best practices that have worked in other jurisdictions.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to testify today. I am available for any questions you may have.

Dear Mayor Hales and Portland City Council Members

I am writing in support of Open and Accountable Elections. I currently serve as the State Representative for House District 41, and as an elected official, I know well the pressure candidates face to fundraise. I also know that the most important voices in a campaign come from everyday citizens, who deserve a level playing field when working to make their voices heard by candidates and elected officials.

While I am hopeful that as a state we can make strides to address campaign finance reform, I am very grateful that the City of Portland is considering this proposal now. I urge your thorough consideration of Open and Accountable Elections as well as any efforts to bring more balance and fairness to the elections process.

Respectfully,

State Representative Kathleen Taylor
House District 41

Re: Agenda Item 1226 for Portland City Council Meeting, November 3, 2016
Adopt the Open and Accountable Elections Policy (Ordinance introduced by Commissioner Fritz; add Code Chapter 2.16)

The Oregon Chapter of the Sierra Club supports the adoption of the Open and Accountable Elections Policy

We support this policy because it will:

- allow people of modest means to run for office, resulting in an increase in the diversity of the City Council as shown by the results of a similar policy adopted by New York City,
- encourage candidates to accept only small donations resulting in candidates who have spent the majority of their campaigning time listening to the electorate,
- provide for stronger transparency rules to allow the voters to see where candidates are getting their funding.

The outcome will promote a more representative government that is more responsive to the needs of all of the diverse residents of Portland. This will in turn make our city better prepared to meet the challenges thrust upon us as we seek to make a just transition to a carbon neutral society.

Thank you for giving us the opportunity to share our views and thank you for listening.

The League of Women Voters, as an organization that promotes active and informed participation in government, has made “money in politics” reform a priority issue since 1973. At the local, state, and national level, Leagues throughout the country are working towards our goal of a more inclusive political process with broad-based and open elections.

We urge you to move Portland one step closer to greater participation in elections by adopting Open and Accountable Elections reform. This reform would reduce the influence of big donors by matching small donations from ordinary Portlanders, making it easier for all to have their voices heard and allowing candidates without access to networks of wealth to run for office and win. By breaking down these barriers to participation, we can help ensure that our City Council reflects and is accountable to every one of us.

In Portland, we don’t shy away from breaking with the status quo when the status quo isn’t working—and it’s clear all across the country that the big-money status quo of our politics is a problem. We don’t have to wait for Washington, D.C. to act. You have the opportunity to reduce the power of money and increase participation in city elections right now.

The Open and Accountable Elections approach to reform has proven to work in places such as New York City. Because of New York City’s small-donor matching system, candidates are campaigning in 90 percent of neighborhoods, instead of just the wealthiest areas. Here in Portland, we can replicate this success and ensure more people have a say in our elections by encouraging candidates to campaign and seek donations among voters in all parts of the city. These donors will have a stake in the success of their preferred candidate and likely will be inspired to increase their involvement in city politics and policy development.

Our city is stronger when we enhance political equality, ensure maximum participation in the political process, protect representative democracy from the distortion of big spending in election campaigns, ensure transparency and the public’s right to know who is using money to influence elections, and enable candidates to compete equitably for office.

The League urges your support of the Open and Accountable Elections reform.

Valdez Bravo, Latino, Native American, Army Veteran, Healthcare Professional

My name is Valdez Bravo. I am a native Oregonian, Latino, and Veteran. I am proud to be the descendant of a Yankton Sioux Chief and an affiliated member of the Standing Rock tribe. I am also proud to have served eight years in the Army, serving in Afghanistan before returning home in 2003. I now serve my fellow Veterans at the local VA hospital.

12% of Americans served their country during WWII. Today, less than a half percent of Americans serve. This, along with economic barriers to entry, has resulted in a lack of Veterans serving in elected office. In 1975, 70% of Congress had served in the military. These days it's closer to 20%<sup>1</sup>. I wasn't yet around in 1975 but I have to believe that Congress was less dysfunctional then – because Veterans put the mission first, over party or personal differences.

Veterans are also underrepresented in local government. There are no Veterans on Portland City Council. There hasn't been a Veteran on our City Council in 24 years, since Mayor Bud Clark, a former Marine, left office in '92.

Open and Accountable Elections will level the playing field and ensure that Veterans will have a voice at the table, and the opportunity to once again serve and be participate in the civic process. Veterans bring their loyalty, duty, selfless-service, honor, integrity, personal courage and diversity to city council. People of color, while under-represented in government, are more than over-represented in the military. Veterans' leadership and diversity will have a powerful and positive impact on local government. This will create a pipeline of future leaders who can serve in positions of increasing responsibility – leaders who look like the communities they serve.

Every day at the VA, I see the lasting damage that war has wreaked upon my fellow Veterans and their families. Men and women, old and young, forever altered by their experiences. The impact of war on our communities is often invisible, and when our elected leaders do not have that experience of serving, they are more likely to repeat these same mistakes, more willing to send our young people into harm's way.

We need campaign finance reform at all levels of government. Portland has the opportunity to take the lead and be a model for other cities, counties, and states. If we can demonstrate a commitment to transparency and open elections across the nation, we will be able to transform the landscape of the political environment and open the door to achieving real progress.

At the micro or macro level, whatever your passion: racial justice, environmental justice, social justice, economic justice – or not going to war – we need to reform our political campaign finance system.

When the donors have open access, we lose. When the average American citizen has open access, we win.

And when we the average American has an equal chance at being elected, we will achieve a more engaged electorate, a representative government, and a government that is truly of the people, by the people, and for the people.

Thank you.

Open and Accountable Elections Testimony

I am James Ofsink, a current candidate for the Oregon Senate and a long time democracy advocate through organizations like the League of Women Voters, City Club, Common Cause, Hack Oregon, and others. Voter Owned Elections was the first campaign I was closely involved in and I was heartbroken to see that promising program fade away due to a few hundred votes.

Throughout my tenure in local activism and advocacy I have consistently been impressed with the policy ideas, passion, and political savvy of members of the community who are outside the traditional circles of political power. These individuals have a lot to contribute to the way our society is run, but as our system exists today they will mostly likely never be able to be put in positions where they can enact real change. As I can attest, being a candidate in our system as it exists today requires a tremendous amount of money to print literature, make lawn signs, use voter tracking technologies, and to do all of the other things required to run a viable campaign. And that financial hurdle is an invisible barrier that limits who even starts the process. For someone working full time and making $30,000 in an entire year, the idea of raising $200,000 in just a few months is daunting to the point of discouraging. Without being part of an existing network of wealthy individuals or organizations, it is difficult to know where to even begin. The result is that groups of people who MOST need a bigger voice in our democracy, including communities of color and young people--the groups of people least likely to have a developed network of wealthy donors--are shut out from a large and important part of the political process. Our existing system exerts pressure shaping the types of candidates that are viable and because of this, we miss out on a lot of potential that these individuals and communities would bring to the leadership of our city.

Aside from who can run for office, it is also important how community members can participate. When people see the tremendous amount of money going into political campaigns and know that they don't have a lot to donate, they may be discouraged from donating at all and end up believing that they don't matter in a political process that places so much emphasis on campaign contributions.

Open and Accountable Elections offers time-tested solutions to both problems--allowing any Portlander an opportunity to galvanize grassroots support and have the resources to run a viable campaign.

Our democracy works best when everyone has a voice and when people know that they can meaningfully engage in the same ways that anyone else can. While other places in the country put up blockades to people participating in their democracy, here in Oregon, we can continue to build upon our legacy as democracy trailblazers.

For a fairer, better, and more participatory democracy, I urge the council to enact Open and Accountable Elections.

Re: Open and Accountable Elections

We at the Alliance for Democracy are supportive of the proposal by Commissioner Fritz and are grateful that this proposal has been brought forward. Thank you, Commissioner Fritz.

The need to move from a privately financed system of electing our city mayor and commissioners is very clear. The present system causes people to believe that their officials are bought and sold to the highest bidder. Certainly not a system which builds confidence and trust.

However, we do note that all other governments using a public funding mechanism also have limits on campaign contributions. Seattle which earlier this year enacted a public funding program at the same time tightened the limits already in place.

The danger with not having limitations is that privately funded candidates can swamp the publicly funded candidates, making elections non-competitive and subject to the same distrust that the present system engenders.

On the Multnomah County ballot is a measure (26-184) to limit campaign contributions/expenditures and requiring disclosure of major funders. The City of Portland should immediately consider and then adopt the same requirements for city elections.

We also think that candidates who accept public funding should be identified as having participated in the system, while those who have not should be identified as having not participated. At minimum, such identification should be a part of each candidate's voter pamphlet statement.

Limitations combined with public funding and clear identification of participation is the way to create a democratic system with public confidence in the system.

Thank you,

David e. Delk
President

Mayor Hales, Commissioners Fish, Fritz, Novick and Saltzman,

Thank you for the opportunity to speak in support of the Open and Accountable Elections proposal. My name is Steven Carter, and I am a volunteer here representing AARP Oregon.

AARP supports this proposal because we believe it will encourage broader representation in city government, greater participation of citizens in political campaigns and elections and create more trust in government through greater transparency and accountability in campaign contributions and spending.

Others will speak today about increasing access to public office and the importance of small donor contributions, but I want to concentrate on two areas in which this proposal will improve the civic environment: Transparency and citizen engagement.

Transparency is a critical component of good government. Citizens deserve to know and must know how public money is being spent and who spending money on political campaigns.

There is a tremendous amount of public distrust about the influence of big money in government – that distrust may be concentrated at the state and national levels, but cynicism about special interests inevitably leaks down to local government as well – deserved or not.

This Open and Accountable Elections reform fights this perception by tightening Oregon's state reporting requirements for campaign contributions and expenditures. Instead of a 30-day deadline to disclose these transactions, in the Portland reform it's cut to 14 days. These requirements are for all candidates – whether they are participating in the small donor program or not. Further, if there is a participating candidate in a contested election, all spending by independent groups of $1,000 or more must be reported in same timeframe. And finally, there can be very stiff penalties – up to $10,000 – for violations of these requirements. And these fines are levied on the candidate personally.

So you see, the tighter reporting requirements, together with tough penalties, equal more transparency in political campaigns.

I want to touch briefly on the importance of civic engagement. AARP believes it's vital that citizens get involved in elections and participatory democracy. This proposal has every chance of improving that. In New York City, which has had a similar program for nearly 30 years, studies have shown that the Fair Elections Act has invigorated civic engagement. The donor match program has increased the number of campaign donors overall, increased the number of small donors and has spread the geographic pattern of contributors to a wider cross-section of the city. Candidates who participate say they can profitably spend their time in small neighborhood meetings talking to a broad spectrum of residents. They report that this outreach in many cases has resulted in local citizens getting involved in their campaigns. A 2009 sampling of small donor participants showed that bus drivers, barbers, administrative assistants and artists were donating as well as lawyers and business people. That's civic engagement.

So for these reasons, and many others, we at AARP Oregon urge you, the council to improve our local government by passing the Open and Accountable Elections reform.

Thank you.

Support Open & Accountable Elections in Portland!

Dear Portland City Council [Mayor Charlie Hales, Portland City Commissioners: Nick Fish, Dan Saltzman],

As a Portland voter and constituent, I write in support of the Open and Accountable Elections Act.

Portland candidates are spending too much time raising money from wealthy donors and too little time of campaigning among everyday voters. In 2012, a few hundred large donors gave three times as much for office than 6,000 everyday voters. This creates a disparity in which some voices speak louder than others.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly in support of the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders.

With this in mind, I hope that you will support the election reform vote coming before the city council.

Support
Open & Accountable Elections
in Portland!

Dear Portland City Council [Mayor Charlie Hales, Portland City Commissioners: Nick Fish, Amanda Fritz, Steve Novick, Dan Saltzman],

As a Portland voter and constituent, I write in support of the Open and Accountable Elections Act.

Portland candidates are spending too much time raising money from wealthy donors and powerful corporate interests, instead of campaigning among everyday voters. In 2012, a few hundred large donors gave three times more to candidates for city office than 6,000 everyday voters. This creates a disparity in which some voices speak louder than others in our democracy.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly advocating for the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders.

With this in mind, I hope that you will support the election reform vote coming before the city council.

Support Open & Accountable Elections in Portland!

Dear Portland City Council [Mayor Charlie Hales, Portland City Commissioners: Nick Fish, Amanda Fritz, Steve Novick, Dan Saltzman],

As a Portland voter and constituent, I write in support of the Open and Accountable Elections Act.

Portland candidates are spending too much time raising money from wealthy donors and powerful corporate interests, instead of campaigning among everyday voters. In 2012, a few hundred large donors gave three times more to candidates for city office than 6,000 everyday voters. This creates a disparity in which some voices speak louder than others in our democracy.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly advocating for the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders.

With this in mind, I hope that you will support the election reform vote coming before the city council.

Dear Portland City Council [Mayor Charlie Hales, Portland City Commissioners: Nick Fish, Amanda Fritz, Steve Novick, Dan Saltzman],

As a Portland voter and constituent, I write in support of the Open and Accountable Elections Act.

Portland candidates are spending too much time raising money from wealthy donors and powerful corporate interests, instead of campaigning among everyday voters. In 2012, a few hundred large donors gave three times more to candidates for city office than 6,000 everyday voters. This creates a disparity in which some voices speak louder than others in our democracy.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly advocating for the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders.

With this in mind, I hope that you will support the election reform vote coming before the city council.

This creates a disparity in which some voices speak louder than others in our democracy.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly advocating for the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders.

With this in mind, I hope that you will support the election reform vote coming before the city council.

in Portland!

Dear Portland City Council [Mayor Charlie Hales, Portland City Commissioners: Nick Fish, Amanda Fritz, Steve Novick, Dan Saltzman],

As a Portland voter and constituent, I write in support of the Open and Accountable Elections Act.

Portland candidates are spending too much time raising money from wealthy donors and powerful corporate interests, instead of campaigning among everyday voters. In 2012, a few hundred large donors gave three times more to candidates for city office than 6,000 everyday voters. This creates a disparity in which some voices speak louder than others in our democracy.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly advocating for the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders.

Support Open & Accountable Elections in Portland!

Dear Portland City Council [Mayor Charlie Haies, Portland City Commissioners: Nick Fish, Amanda Fritz, Steve Novick, Dan Saltzman].

As a Portland voter and constituent, I write in support of the Open and Accountable Elections Act.

Portland candidates are spending too much time raising money from wealthy donors and powerful corporate interests, instead of campaigning among everyday voters. In 2012, a few hundred large donors gave three times more to candidates for city office than 6,000 everyday voters. This creates a disparity in which some voices speak louder than others in our democracy.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly advocating for the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders

With this in mind, I hope that you will support the election reform vote coming before the city council.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly advocating for the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders.

With this in mind, I hope that you will support the election reform vote coming before the city council.

Dear Portland City Council [Mayor Charlie Hales, Portland City Commissioners: Nick Fish, Amanda Fritz, Steve Novick, Dan Saltzman],

As a Portland voter and constituent, I write in support of the Open and Accountable Elections Act.

Portland candidates are spending too much time raising money from wealthy donors and powerful corporate interests, instead of campaigning among everyday voters. In 2012, a few hundred large donors gave three times more to candidates for city office than 6,000 everyday voters. This creates a disparity in which some voices speak louder than others in our democracy.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly advocating for the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders.

Dear Portland City Council [Mayor Charlie Hales, Portland City Commissioners: Nick Fish, Amanda Fritz, Steve Novick, Dan Saltzman],

As a Portland voter and constituent, I write in support of the Open and Accountable Elections Act.

Portland candidates are spending too much time raising money from wealthy donors and powerful corporate interests, instead of campaigning among everyday voters. In 2012, a few hundred large donors gave three times more to candidates for city office than 6,000 everyday voters. This creates a disparity in which some voices speak louder than others in our democracy.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly advocating for the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders.

With this in mind, I hope that you will support the election reform vote coming before the city council.

Dear Portland City Council [Mayor Charlie Hales, Portland City Commissioners: Nick Fish, Amanda Fritz, Steve Novick, Dan Saltzman],

As a Portland voter and constituent, I write in support of the Open and Accountable Elections Act.

Portland candidates are spending too much time raising money from wealthy donors and powerful corporate interests, instead of campaigning among everyday voters. In 2012, a few hundred large donors gave three times more to candidates for city office than 6,000 everyday voters. This creates a disparity in which some voices speak louder than others in our democracy.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly advocating for the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders.

With this in mind, I hope that you will support the election reform vote coming before the city council.

Dear Portland City Council [Mayor Charlie Hales, Portland City Commissioners: Nick Fish, Amanda Fritz, Steve Novick, Dan Saltzman],

As a Portland voter and constituent, I write in support of the Open and Accountable Elections Act.

Portland candidates are spending too much time raising money from wealthy donors and powerful corporate interests, instead of campaigning among everyday voters. In 2012, a few hundred large donors gave three times more to candidates for city office than 6,000 everyday voters. This creates a disparity in which some voices speak louder than others in our democracy.

I want to restore balance to the election process by ensuring that all Portlanders have an equal voice. I am strongly advocating for the Open and Accountable Elections Act, because it promotes community-supported candidates, makes our elections more accessible, and ensures that people of diverse backgrounds can work to represent the interests of everyday Portlanders.

With this in mind, I hope that you will support the election reform vote coming before the city council.

1226 TIME CERTAIN: 3:00 PM – Adopt the Open and Accountable Elections Policy (Ordinance introduced by Commissioner Fritz; add Code Chapter 2.16) 3 hours requested

Good Morning Mayor and Commissioners:

Mary Ann Schwab, Community Advocate

I agree with the League of Women Voter's that every Portlander deserves an equal chance to run for office. And here is why I'm supporting the Open and Accountable Elections reform that the Portland City Council will consider today.

Last time around: Voter Owned Elections City Budget spent $.69 per citizen — that $.69 leveled out the playing field: benchmark dates were set, budgets set — no candidate could spend more or jump start media advertising. Yes, it truly leveled campaign spending.

At the time, 7 of the 8 candidates running against former Commissioner Randy Leonard were serving on the SE Uplift Board of Directors — including me.

Commissioner Randy Leonard won re-election by 1/2 of 1%. Mark Lakeman came in second, spending about $35,000. I came in third, with roughly 6,000 votes, spending $385. It was Christisne Yun who designed my web page — in kind. In fact, I even car pooled with Tom Potter in his VW Camper — telling him when elected — I will hire SE Uplift Director, Elizabeth Kennedy-Wong. I lost! He hired her! When she transferred to Parks, I knew Mayor Potter would not run for re-election.

To be honest, with six weeks to the primary I was simply much too busy to really campaign. It was during Erwin's brother and sister-in-laws first (and last) trip to the United States — celebrating their 40 Wedding Anniversary. While I spearheaded a three-day project removing 1971 kitchen wall-paper, and then painting it for an elderly friend. Our son surprised us with a rental car. Erwin drove over 2,000 miles touring Oregon and Washington's points of interest within their two-week stay with us. You'll not believe how they treated us celebrating Erwin's 80th Birthday when touring Tulln an der Donau, Austria in 2003. whoops, I digress.

I am asking you to vote yes — Adopt the Open and Accountable Elections Policy. Granted, for the same reason given when Mayor Charlie Hales choose not to run for re-election, "...you can't be out fundraising and run the City at the same time." Surely, he will vote yes, knowing within the first year of its establishment, the Open and Accountable Elections Commissioner recommend residency verification requirements. I agree with the League of Women Voter's that every Portlander deserves an equal chance to run for office.

Thank you Commissioner Amanda Fritz for your efforts in bringing this forward today.

Mayor Hales and Commissioners:

My name is Mark Sturbois and I am representing Communications Workers of America Local 7901. I am also privileged to be a member of many of the other groups who will testify today.

Instead of citing statistics I would like to give an observation which, I am sure most if not all of you can relate to. In today's climate you are tasked with making decisions that can occasionally disturb a significant portion of the electorate. You have a reason for making said decisions yet your rationale is lost with a simple trip to ORESTAR. Instead of being able to defend your path to reaching your decision you are hit with innuendos on contributions and the independence of your votes. Regardless of the validity, it clouds the decision.

With the acceptance of the Fair Elections Plan this could be a moot point. As incumbents you should have the networks to meet the participation requirements and still have the name recognition and free media in the course of doing your jobs. You would be able to meet the public or talk to them on their doorsteps or over the phone instead of dialing for dollars and you have a record to run on.

I have volunteered on campaigns and interviewed candidates for many years and over the years I have gotten to meet many bright and principled community advocates. One is sitting on the Council at this time. We are richer for having these people enter the process. We are richer for the debates and the passion that these people bring but so many of them have little experience in running a campaign, or raising funds. The City is richer with more voices at the table and the foundation this plan would have in enabling robust discussions with people passionate enough to be put on display.

The plan has a track record to protect the city and I believe the price of implementing it is a pittance compared to what it offers.

Thank you
