Hey Karla,

Just writing to confirm that I have a spot claimed for the communications portion of the City Council's agenda portion on April 5th.

Thanks,

Otherwise, I can go ahead and try to schedule a quick meeting with somebody in each commissioner's office, is that right?

Hello Dominic,

Not sure if you are familiar with the Communications portion of the Portland City Council agenda or not. This is where we allow the first five people who have signed up in advance in writing to speak to the Council for three minutes on the topic of their choosing. Communications are the first item on the official agenda and we start at 9:30 a.m. on Wednesdays.

Communications allow the Council to hear of issues that interest the public but does not allow an opportunity for dialogue.

Please let me know if you are interested in speaking. The next available date is April 5th.

Regards,

Karla

Hi Karla,

I'm writing to see how to best communicate quickly with the commissioners. I've spent some time in city hall, yet I haven't testified.

I am organizing a civic education workshop, and would like to partner with someone in city hall. It will be a non-partisan, coalition led event, which teaches people who want to make an impact how they can do it in local politics. People need to know they can make more of an impact than just posting on Facebook or protesting.

For a full description of my proposition, you can read this blog post: (<5 min read) <http://www.helpersunited.co/2017/02/24/civic-education-workshop/>

How can I best bring this idea in front of the commissioners?

Thanks,
Dominic Kukla
