Sorry, hi mayor and city council... forgive me, I have had a weird relationship with using a PC computer as I am an apple user. So bear with me... at least I do not have to worry about using a mic, besides a mic drop haha

Okay...oops for the record, my name is Philip j. Wolfe I was a former chair with COAB and am a commissioner with Portland Commission on Disability, going on my second term now..

Thank you for being patient with me on this... I know you all may want to go home now after a colorful morning , haha...

Okay... thank you AMAC for your collaboration and leadership in police reform. Thank you Mandi for your amazing work beyond ... and all those involved in developing PCCEP

Now.. umm few things... first I would like to point out page 10, 58, where it says...

It is pulling up slowly due to poor reception, so much for advanced technology, haha

Its coming up

58. it read “serious use of force” with details what is considered “serious force”

As a former chair for use of force sub committee with COAB, after a long research on policies mainly 10.10.10 use of force... chokehold is considered a deadly force. Pressure point the neck almost instant kills a person, so when using this under the category as “serious” instead of “deadly” I implore you to make a friendly amendment on the wording...

Lastly, yes, I want to say for the record, that I stand with our communities, and yes, I stand with PCCEP with an understanding that we all work together in inspiring the highest excellence in PBB, trust building, community engagement and essentially police accountability. I am looking forward to go forward with PCCEP and am still committed in this work with what we have been struggling to do in the past.

In response to Dan salzman, the reason for “dysfuncial” with COAB has nothing to do with COAB, it is due to lack of training from the beginning, so with Nicole explaining the scope, mandi too, I am confident with this approach with PCCEP, we can together and achieve.

Thank you for your patience. Questions?

Thank you!
