Appointee bio and statement of interest

As the executive director of a culturally specific organization, my focus is advancing economic and equitable outcomes for African Americans and vulnerable populations. I'm very interested in helping address issues that have primarily impacted people of color and of lower income levels. I hope to help the Portland Housing Advisory Commission find ways to measure the policies that have been put in place to determine if these policies are working for the community. I'm also very interested in helping the Housing Bureau examine ways to increase the housing stock in Portland and creating economic opportunities for at risk communities.

Prior to coming to Portland to serve as the Executive Director for Portland Community Reinvestment Initiatives (PCRI), I worked in City Government for a City that was 73% Hispanic or Latino. I started my career as an intern in the City Manager's office and rose through the ranks in city's redevelopment agency, as an analyst, project manager, department manager and department director. The City consisted of extreme spectrums of economic diversity, with a large percentage of the workforce being employed by the agriculture industry. In my job functions, I spent over 16 years representing the needs of minority people and people of the lower income bracket. As the newly hired Executive Director for PCRI, the focus and the mission of my organization is to help people of color to provide affordable housing and associated services that achieve family stability, self-sufficiency and resident wealth creation. I believe my experience in redevelopment and economic development provide me with the aptitude to serve as a member of the advisory committee.
