I was unaware of the limits. I had contributed to his primary campaign. Following the primary I contributed again. His campaign informed me that could not accept the contribution and returned them promptly.

I more carefully reviewed the complaint. It mentions seven (7) separate donations.

I only only recall 3 donations. 1 in the primary and 2 in the general, that were both returned.

And one other thing, in each case I was responding to an email solicitation from the campaign. I continue to receive these solicitations, more than one a week.

Am I to understand that they're allowed to repeatedly solicit me, but if I respond to too many solicitations, I am the guilty party?
