To Whom It May Concern-

Please consider this a formal complaint against Next Up! Action Fund for engaging in election activity in support of the Write In Teresa Raiford campaign without any of the required campaign finance reporting or disclosures.

As previously sent, Next Up! Action Fund has publicly stated that they will be using their organizational resources to advocate in this election. People have been receiving text messages and other forms of voter outreach that have hard costs to create, but there is no reporting or transparency to any of this activity. Next Up! should be reporting their in-kind (or other) contributions to the write in campaign if they are expending resources on this election.

Thank you

It also doesn't look like Iannarone will have a clear shot at Wheeler. On Tuesday, Gladu's group, Next Up, announced that it had endorsed the write-in campaign to elect Teresa Raiford as mayor. Raiford, who started Don't Shoot Portland to more civilian oversight of police, finished third in the primary. Next Up says it mobilized volunteers to send out tens of thousands of texts and phone calls aiding candidates in the primary and plans to do it again in advance of the election.
