Testimony to Portland City Council on the Shelter to Housing Continuum Project, Recommended Draft

The homeless crisis is getting out of control while we should help our fellow men and woman we also need them to want to help themselves and the community around them, many of this people have simply given up on life and that shows in the way they take care of their surroundings a collection of garbage and other random objects like furniture and stuff. This people need some kind of shelter where they can access services like mental health and drug rehab along with the opportunity to start all over again in a new job and financial assistance for housing.
