"It's now or never, if we want to limit global warming to 1.5°C. Without immediate and deep emissions reductions across all sectors, it will be impossible."

> -Jim Skea, Co-Chair IPCC Working Group III (April 4, 2022)

NOW OR NEVER

The science is unequivocal:

To prevent irreversible damage to the planet, we must keep average global temperatures from increasing 1.5° C above pre-industrial levels. This requires swift action:

By 2030 – We must slash Portland's planetwarming carbon emissions 50% or more, compared to 1990 levels. We have eight years to meet this goal or else getting to net-zero could become impossible.

1990 2000 2010 2020 2030 2050 2040 percent change in emissions from 1990 levels We are here -50% NET-ZERO

By 2050 — We must reduce emissions to net-zero by the time a current sixth-grader is 40 years old.

But there is good news

The worst-case scenario doesn't have to be our future. We still have options that could change the course of events for the people of Portland—those here today and those who will come after us.

We can do this

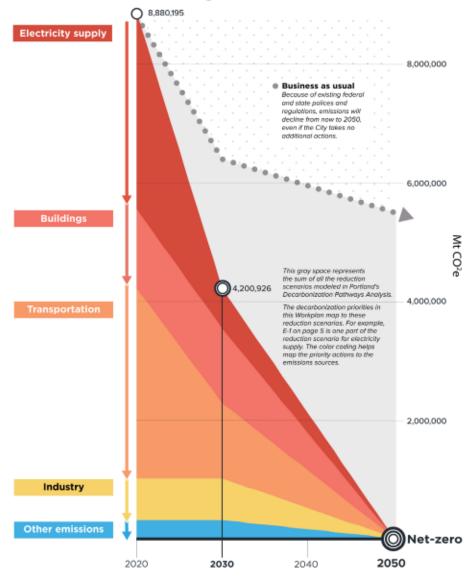

We can meet our 2030 and 2050 targets if we implement the priority actions in this workplan over the next three years. These actions are grounded in the best available science and shaped by years of discussions across our communities. They are the steps that City leaders and bureaus can take now to ensure the best-case scenario for Portland in a rapidly warming world.

Portland's pathways to net-zero carbon by 2050

Highest-impact priorities:

- E-1: 100% renewable electricity supply
- T-1 through T-5: Portland Preferred Transportation Policy Scenario
- T-6: Electric vehicles to replace remaining gasoline
- T-9: Renewable biofuels to replace remaining diesel fuel
- I-1: Industrial innovation

Priority areas: decarbonization and resilience

Decarbonization

BPS + PBOT

- Electricity supply
- Buildings
- Transportation
- Fuels
- Industry
- Land-use
- Embodied carbon/food
- Cross-sector

Resilience

BPS, BES, BRFS, JOHS, OMF, PBEM, PBOT, PF&R, PP&R, PWB

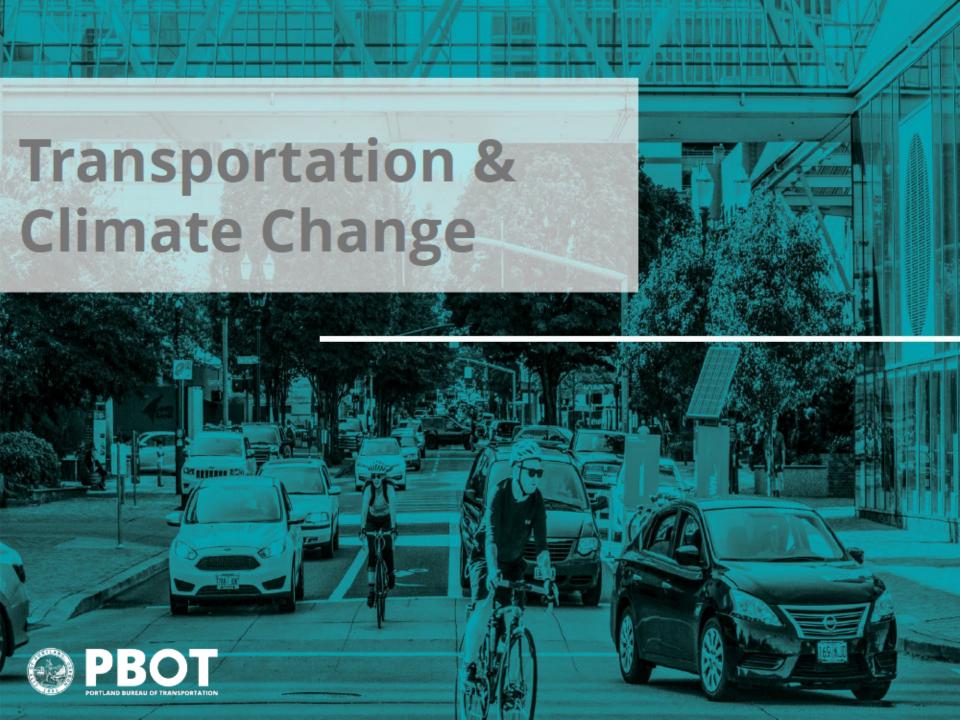

- Flooding
- Trees
- Natural resource protection
- Wildfire
- Health impacts (heat + smoke)
- Resilience hubs
- Internal policies

PBOT'S COMMITMENT TO TRANSPORTATION JUSTICE

Will it advance equity and address structural racism?

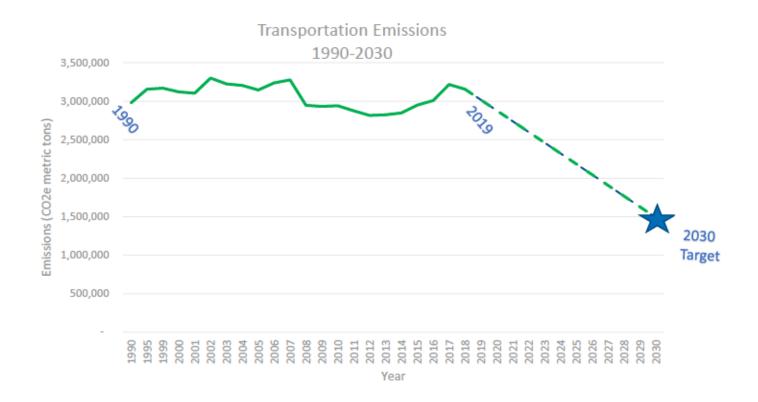

Will it reduce carbon emissions?

PORTLAND'S TRANSPORTATION EMISSIONS ARE UP 3% SINCE 1990. WE'RE OFF TRACK AND MUST CHANGE TRAJECTORY FAST TO MEET 2030 GOALS.

PBOT CLIMATE STRATEGY

FY 21-22 Accomplishments

Blumenauer Bridge and Building a Better 82nd Ave

BIKETOWN Expansion

Rose Lane Transit improvements

Parking Climate & Equitable Mobility Transaction Fee

Transportation Workplan Priorities: Decarbonization

1 Price and Reinvest

for Equitable Mobility

Regulate Demand and Incent Options

Reform Key

with Goals

Policies and Align

Reallocate and Activate Rights-of-Way Electrify Centers and Corridors

Transportation Workplan Priorities: Resilience

Mike Jordan, Chief Administrative Officer, Office of Management and Finance

Adena Long, Director, Portland Parks & Recreation

PARKS AND COMMUNITY SPACES

Invest in Trees

- Update the Urban Forestry Management Plan and Title 11 Tree Code
- Expand tree planting in front-line and priority neighborhoods

Prevent Wildfires through fuels management and collaboration with PF&R and agency partners at the County and State levels

Upgrade Community Centers to create energy-efficient, resilient facilities

Dawn Uchiyama, Director, Bureau of Environmental Services

Jonna Papaefthimiou, Chief Resilience Officer, Portland Bureau of Emergency Management
