Hello,

For me, a major appeal of living in Portland is the number of beautiful big trees everywhere in the City. I have not lived anywhere else in the U.S. that has a Heritage Tree program, which says a lot about Portland's pride in its trees, especially the older ones.

Another aspect of that pride in our beautiful trees has been the Large Tree Amendment, set to expire at the end of 2024. I believe developers need "encouragement" to respect our older trees, therefore I urge the Urban Forestry Commission and the Portland Planning Commission to extend this amendment.

Thank you,
