754	Terry J. Harris	Support with changes	I have no doubt that a cleaned-up, unified and streamlined grants administration policy could have great benefits and efficiencies. But, for whatever reason, this policy puts the MAYOR squarely into the final decision-making around outgoing grants. Grant administration would seem to be squarely in the jurisdiction of the City Administrator under the new charter. Indeed, this seems to inject political decision-making into an area that should scrupulously avoid it. Also, this policy appears to eliminate some fairly sensible grant-making guardrails found in current financial rules. There may be reasons for this, but the materials supplied here do not provide them. This policy should be remanded for amendment and further explanation.	No	08/24/24 9:39 AM
