That's odd, I sent an email from my iphone yesterday morning in Council Chambers, sitting right next to you! Here's another submission. Let me know if you need more information.

Bob Sallinger, Director of Conservation for the Audubon Society of Portland and Mike Houck, Director of the Urban Greenspaces Institute would like to present City Council with copies of Wild in the City, Exploring The Intertwine, a guide to the Portland-Vancouver region's networks of parks, trails, and natural areas. Wild in the City also explores the techniques the City of Portland is using to integrate grey and green infrastructure through its stormwater management, parks, and urban design.

I haven't received a request from either Mike or Bob. Please respond to this email with your address, phone number and what it is you will be speaking about by 5:00 p.m. tomorrow to get on next week's agenda under the Communications portion of the Official Council Agenda.

Regards,
Karla

Just checked with Karla: we do have two Communications slots open next week, and in terms of Council etiquette it's nice for us to use those when we can rather than smush things in pre-gavel.

Would you mind emailing her to request those slots?

Thanks much.

Hi you two,

I was out sick yesterday and so missed the lively conversation about dates. The 7th works great. I'll see whether there are Communications slots available; if so, I may ask you to email Karla to formally request them. If not, we'll do it pre-gavel and it won't be part of the formal agenda. Either way, we'll see you at 9:30. Looking forward to seeing the book in person - I've heard great things!

Bob, I assume you will take the lead on the presentation since it's a PAS/OSU publication and PAS project. I will sit there and look as if I am phropesying

Mike
