Riot police and student demonstrators face off Wednesday outside 30 Millbank, the headquarters of the British Conservative Party. Violence erupted as tens of thousands of students marched through London to protest plans to triple university tuition fees.

35 arrested in London tuition protest

LONDON — A demonstration against government proposals to cut education spending and increase tuition for university students turned violent Wednesday as protesters attempted to storm the building that houses the Conservative Party.

The protesters scuffled with police officers; set off flares; burned placards; threw eggs, bottles and other projectiles; and shattered windows at the building, 30 Millbank, in Westminster. A small group of demonstrators, some of whose faces were obscured by ski masks, climbed to the roof of a nearby building, waving anarchist flags and chanting, "Tory scum."

The protest was dispersed about 10 p.m. Fourteen people, including seven police officers, were injured, none of them seriously, authorities said. Thirty-five people were arrested.

An estimated 52,000 people also massed near Parliament on Wednesday to condemn the government's education proposals, which would allow universities to charge $9,600 to $14,400 in tuition a year, up from a cap of $5,264. The protest was the largest street demonstration against the government's plans, which were announced last month, to cut public spending by $130 billion by 2015. Unions and public employees have promised more demonstrations and strikes, particularly as details of the cuts become clear.

Tuition is a politically sensitive subject in Britain, where universities are heavily subsidized by the government. Until the late 1990s, when the Labour government introduced tuition, students paid nothing to attend college.

WHO KILLED FARELESS SQUARE?

by Lew Church

Who killed Fareless Square?

Why and what's the reason for?

Not me, said Rick Van Beveran,
Chairman of the TriMet board,
I'm just a restaurant tea party man.
My good friend Tom Hughes
Wants to build the CRC,
Sounds peachy-keen to me.
Bob Stacey is just some socialist clown,
We don't want him in our town.
If transit riders boycott Reedville Cafe,
Like Dr. King, they outta drive a truck --
I just say, good luck!

Who killed Fareless Square?

Why and what's the reason for?

Not me, said George Passadore,
Wells Fargo president,
Last president of the TriMet board.
I'm just here to collect classic cars --
Lamborghini, Maserati, Mercedes-Benz,
Humvee, Cadillac, Astin-Martin,
And number seven, that little Volkswagen bug.
I keep 'em next to my Party Room,
For Fareless Square, I don't care,
I'm just here to lower the boom.

Who killed Fareless Square?

Why and what's the reason for?

Not me, said Bernie Bottomly,
Chairman of the Portland white people's
Business Alliance,
And god of Mindy Stone's idolatry.
I wouldn't know a TriMet bus,
From a hole in the wall.
I'm just here to make a buck,
I don't really give a fuck.

Who killed Fareless Square?

Why and what's the reason for?

Not me, said the Oregonian Editorial Board,
Typing on their old typewriter.
Trains are cool, and buses suck,
Transit riders, we just say, good luck.

Who killed Fareless Square?

Why and what's the reason for?

Not me, said John Charles,
From the Milton Friedman Policy Institute.
Its hard to say, its hard to tell,
Fareless Square, go to hell.

Who killed Fareless Square?

Why and what's the reason for?

We're here to save it, said TRU,
Transit Riders Union.
Don't believe TriMet's shuck and jive,
Its all just a game to them.
We may have to give it CPR,
Resuscitate and keep Fareless Square alive.
With Light Rail Neil and these TriMet whores,
Transit riders have to say,
No war, but class war,
No war, but class war.
