a) What impacts are anticipated in the community from this proposed Council item?

This report has significant value for the Auditor's Office, City Council, for the Police Bureau, and most importantly, for the community we serve. This report is an independent account of seven officer-involved shootings and details how the Portland Police Bureau investigated and reviewed each. The analysis centers on the quality and thoroughness of the Police Bureau's internal investigation and review of each of the incidents. The report identifies areas of notable improvement, identifies issues that need to be addressed and makes 13 recommendations for change.

b) Which community and business groups, under-represented groups, organizations, external government entities, and other interested parties were involved in this effort, and when and how were they involved?

A member of the community and former Citizen Review Committee (CRC) member, as well as a current member of the CRC participated on the selection committee convened to review the requests for proposals for this contract. After being tasked with this project, OIR met with community advocacy groups, including mental health advocates and members of the Albina Ministerial Alliance, the civilian coordinator of the Police Bureau's Crisis Intervention Team program, members of the Citizen Review Committee, and Portland Copwatch. They also met with Police Bureau executives, a civilian facilitator of the Police Review Board and the president of the Portland Police Association. The Auditor, IPR Director and Assistant Director, also met with OIR staff.

c) How did public involvement shape the outcome of this Council item?

This public involvement helped inform OIR staff of the historical context of the incidents that occurred over a six year span of time. Stakeholders were also able to provide relevant information and community perspective as the project developed.

The Portland City Auditor LaVonne Griffin-Valade, IPR Director Mary-Beth Baptista and Assistant Director Constantin Severe, and the staff of OIR.
