What Are Old People For?

Building a Community For All Ages

Tuesday, September 23, 2014, 3:30 to 6:30 p.m.
Portland State University, Lincoln Hall

Join AARP, Elders in Action and Portland State University Institute on Aging for several informative and entertaining presentations of the progress of the Age-Friendly Portland initiative and how you can be a part of its year-long engagement effort.

What Are Old People For is a community awareness and engagement project of the Action Plan for Age Friendly Portland designed to stimulate an intergenerational dialogue to help build a community for all ages.

Registration required: <http://tinyurl.com/people9-23-14>.
The event is free, but seating is limited.

Subject: announcement at City Council meeting

I would to make a short announcement in front of the City Council on September 3rd or 10th about an event on September 23rd titled "What Are Old People For?: Building a Community For All Ages" to be held at PSU's Lincoln Hall. This is part of the Action Plan for an Age Friendly Portland adopted by the City Council.

I know you have a limited number of public speakers at the beginning of the meeting so I am flexible as to which day. Thanks and please confirm at some point or let me know if you have questions or need additional information.
