

Please say, "No" to Pembina's plans for Pier 6. Sure, we get a few jobs out of the proposal (actually very few), but the negatives are overwhelming. We still don't know what the blast zone might look like in the event of an accident. We know trains derail -- four in the last four months. What of all the communities along the long rail route? What of the crowd attending a Blazers game with rail lines a stone's throw away. Do you really want us to say in the event of an accident, "Well, it seemed like a good deal at the time."? Portland is too great a city to agree to being in a sacrifice zone for the sake of the greed of the fossil fuel conglomerates. Please say, "No".

Thank you.
