17332	Benjamin Kerensa	4/23/16	Be liberal in your allowed employment use here. This property is currently a major employer thats relocating. It would be good to replace this with a similar level of employment in that area.	employment-346-960	Madison South
2020	Westin Glass	1/2/16	While the Prime Industrial overlay is a useful change to the zoning map for the majority of the industrial land north of Columbia Blvd, residential areas such as NE Holland Ct should be excluded from this overlay. This overlay would allow residential neighborhoods to be ruined by the conversion of residential properties into industrial uses.	Prime Industrial (I)	Sunderland
1970	Angie Jenkins	12/29/15	This site needs to stay retail/mixed use. This area already has plenty of industrial to the North of Sandy blvd. What this area needs is a thriving retail (target) or grocery store (safeway). Apartments would be helpful above.	employment-284-814	Argay
1741	Garlynn Woodsong	11/9/15	On the west side of 17th, the land needs to be re-zoned to allowed for residential/commercial mixed use to provide for a transit zone to, and retail center for, the adjacent neighborhood.	Prime Industrial (I)	Brooklyn Action Corps
1740	Garlynn Woodsong	11/9/15	The area directly around OMSI and the east end of Tillicum Crossing needs to allow for a mix of high-intensity uses, including residential/industrial mixed use (this does exist and can be done well in the 21st century).	Central Eastside Subdistrict	Hosford-Abernethy
1581	jeff burns	10/10/15	This comment revolves around the Central Eastside Industrial turning into office space. The industrial nature of the Central Eastside industrial district is a real gem, where small scale factory and industry can be located close to each other. This area is an incubator of new and upcoming talent and innovation. I've heard INDUSTRIAL SANCTUARY mentioned in multiple meetings, and creating office space for cube farms does not bode well for the table saws, welding equipment, bakeries, and brewers that call the place home. 1509	Stephen Pink	9/23/15	I am currently planning a large scale remodel and ADU on my property (which is allowable under current zoning) Is this a wise investment based on the proposed industrialized zoning?	employment-342-1344	Montavilla

1482	Mark Hush	9/22/15	I have watched the evolution of the Pearl District first hand since 1991. I remember the rail yard on which now are thousands of apartments and condominiums. There used to be a scrap metal yard in downtown Portland. It is miss-guided logic to put a hard line prohibiting the expansion of our urban core into industrial areas. In almost every possible example of civilization Cities have expanded into their employment lands (industrial and agricultural lands). The industrialization and codification of an Industrial Sanctuary is a very bad idea if you don't build in some form of zoning flexibility we are going to see stagnation of employment density.	Prime Industrial (I)	Northwest District
