

Portland Clean Energy Community Benefits Fund Appointees

Alicia Chapman

Alicia is the owner and Chief Executive Officer of Willamette Technical Fabricators. Prior to founding the business in 2020, she led the Oregon Manufacturing Innovation Center's research for Boeing and other industry partners, after working at the Institute for Sustainable Solutions as an NSF-funded Research Fellow and leading development programs for USAID in Palestine, Afghanistan, and Libya. She studied economics at the American and George Washington Universities in Washington, DC, before moving to Portland in 2012 to pursue a PhD in public policy at Portland State. In 2022 she completed the Stanford Graduate School of Business Latino Entrepreneurship Initiative. Alicia serves on the Board of Directors for the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco's Portland Branch, the Board of Trustees for the National Small Business Association, the Board of Directors for Business for a Better Portland, the Board of the Oregon Business Academy, the Manufacturing Council of Oregon, the Portland BizWomen Coalition, and the WTS (Women's Transportation Seminar) International ED&I Committee. In 2023, she was appointed by Governor Kotek to serve on the Oregon Commission for Women and Oregon Transportation Commission.

Paul Lumley

Paul is a Yakama Nation citizen and is beginning a new role in July 2023 as Chief Executive Officer for the Cascade AIDS Project. He has served for the last seven years as Chief Executive Officer for the Native American Youth and Family Center (NAYA). He came to NAYA in 2016 after being the Executive Director of the Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission (CRITFC) since 2009. Prior to that Paul served as Executive Director of the National American Indian Housing Council in Washington DC from 2007 to 2009. While also in DC, Paul served as the Senior Tribal Liaison for the U.S. Department of Defense from 2004-2007. From 1987 to 2004, Paul served in several capacities at CRITFC.

Paul has a wide-ranging background on issues impacting American Indians, Alaska Natives, and Native Hawaiians. Mr. Lumley has worked directly with tribal governments, tribal consortia, virtually all federal agencies impacting Indian country, and Native American national and regional organizations throughout his professional career. Experience areas include tribal treaty rights, environmental protection and restoration, housing, defense, education and social services. Paul earned a Bachelor of Science in Mathematics from Western Washington University in 1986. Paul serves as a trustee of the Native American Agriculture Fund, a board member of the First People's Fund, and a commissioner with the City of Portland Independent District Commission.

DeAngelo Moaning

DeAngelo is the Chief of Staff at Raimore Construction and a member of the National Association of Minority Contractors – Oregon. In his role at Raimore, DeAngelo manages the entire IT infrastructure of the company and leads the company's public involvement outreach efforts. DeAngelo has worked in the construction industry for seven years in various roles and currently serves a role on Portland YouthBuilders' Construction Advisory Board. He is also the Executive Director of the Louiza Event Space, a long-standing business with over 20 combined years of supporting the Portland community in the event and service industry through its various iterations. As a multigenerational Portland native, he has long established ties to the Historic Albina Community. DeAngelo studied Psychology and Business at Portland Community College and serves as both the First Vice President and Chair of Economic Development for the Portland Chapter of the NAACP.

Ranfis Villatoro

Ranfis Villatoro is the Oregon State Policy Manager for the BlueGreen Alliance where he works with labor and environmental organizations to advance climate solutions and create quality jobs. Ranfis has also worked as a community organizer for the Latino/immigrant community with organizations including Causa Oregon, Salem/Keizer Coalition for Equality, CAPACES Leadership Institute and Voz Workers' Rights Education Project. Ranfis brings valuable experience in grantmaking, fundraising, organizing, and advocating for workforce and contract equity through community benefit frameworks and agreements.

Faith Graham

Faith Graham is the Principal Director of West Coast Strategy and Development at Elevate Energy, a national nonprofit organization that works to create equitable access to clean and affordable heat, power, and water. She was previously the Director of the Network for Energy, Water, and Health in Affordable Buildings, a national social impact and learning network focused at the intersection of affordable housing and energy efficiency. Faith was the managing director of MPower Oregon from 2012 to 2017 and brings decades of experience in sustainable and affordable housing work. As a lawyer, Faith brings a valuable legal perspective and experience in contract negotiations and complex real estate transactions and financing arrangements.