In recognition of Latinx Heritage Month, I was honored to speak Sunday at El Grito Portland, an annual celebration of our community's collective power and resilience. We were able to get here because we have hope, we have faith, and we have each other. I have seen our community come out to advocate for justice, dignity, and respect, often risking our livelihoods, homes, and lives in order to create a better world for our families. We have come a long way – but we still have a long way to go. So many in our community still experience challenges or job discrimination, or they aren't able to fully participate fully in the economy and government to which we have contributed so much. The movement for justice continues, and so does our obligation to use our voices. Keep showing up, keep demanding equality and opportunity – and, most of all, keep being PROUD.

@bullhorn_ and now claims that 'she's being exploited'. Puhleeze. You are NOT BEING EXPLOITED. It's called 'taking responsibility'. She's refusing to be responsible for her own actions and yet she wants to be mayor....Major red flag. <https://www.kgw.com/article/news/politics/portland-mayoral-candidate-carmen-rubio-dinging-parked-tesla/283-6c59ba3f-1d64-4ea0-8446-fab93a0e1bce>

Learn how to drive!!!

Please step down. (Off the stage and out of the mayoral race, plz. Ty.)

You're on crack I'm assuming right?

100+ parking tickets. License suspended 6 times. Skipped every court date. And now, a hit and run. You are not qualified to hold office.

Today is the 60th anniversary of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act, landmark legislation that opened the door to many other civil rights laws and protections. Last week the Northwest Freedom Singers filled Council Chambers with inspiration and hope as we passed a proclamation to keep the flame for justice alive and bright. As we see ongoing attacks on the progress of the civil rights movement, we need to know our history and share it with the next generation. And it is vitally important that we continue opening doors, holding them open, and, if needed, knocking them down to ultimately realize our community's full potential. Our schools, workplaces, and other places where we gather must remain safe from discrimination against women, Black people and Indigenous people, people of color, members of the LGBTQ+ community, and other frontline communities. We cannot normalize these rollbacks.

@quinndianethereaux if you were who you say you are in respect to "Interconnectedness and well-being," you wouldn't express yourself in such disconnecting and unhealthy ways. Your words make you sound as ugly and evil, as those you say you abhor. You are free to express yourself as you wish, but you'll catch more bees with honey.

You support sending police to brutalize and assault students for taking over a library to stop genocide. You are truly despicable and you have no place acting as though you care about peoples' stories of liberation and resilience.

Our central city has so many wonderful things to discover – whether you're a local or a tourist. Look for these sidewalk clings around town, download the NEAR ME NOW app, and start exploring! This innovative project is led by the Public Environment Management Office in collaboration with Mayor Ted Wheeler's Office, Travel Portland, Portland Metro Chamber, Downtown Portland Clean & Safe, Downtown Retail Council, Pioneer Place, Old Town Community Association, and West End and Pearl District businesses.

I want to provide an important update about our work to consolidate the city's permitting services. The goal is to support a high-functioning, customer-focused process to provide equitable access and consistent, predictable, and timely services.
