@PortlandGov @OPB
@AprilEhrlich @Verde\_NW @BESPortland @CommRubio Here's the b.s. that Mapps' office responded back in April when I asked why they were ending the FOT contract. pic.twitter.com/0xpE8Y45JK

Thank you so much for reaching out to our office to share that thoughtfully written letter. It is not typical for us to take this long to get back to constituents, so please accept my apology. It took some time to get a clear picture of how we are moving forward, and I wanted to ensure that I relayed the best possible information. I want to assure you that Friends of Trees (FOT) remains a valued partner for both the Bureau of Environmental Services (BES), as well as Portland Parks and Recreation's (PP&R) Urban Forestry team (who still maintains an ongoing contract with FOT).

The City of Portland pays different contractors to plant trees, and Friends of Trees is one of those contractors. As you may have read, Friends of Trees had been contracted to plant street trees by BES. BES has held multiple contracts with Friends of Trees – most recently a five-year contract that was set to expire at the end of 2021. The end of this contract coincided with Urban Forestry developing its own street tree planting program. (This new program includes an on-call contract between Urban Forestry and Friends of Trees.)

To ensure a smooth transition, BES extended the 5-year contract with Friends of Trees, adding $675,000 and moving the end date to June 30, 2022. Urban Forestry's contract with Friends of Trees is separate and is responsible for other tree care across the city. That contract runs for five years and is currently in its second year. Friends of Trees is allocated $190,000.00 for this tree planting season (which they have not yet fully used), and they are eligible to provide up to $1 million in paid contracted services annually.

Just last year alone, our efforts resulted in more trees being planted than any previous year on record – with over 700 in tree-deficient neighborhoods – and gave away 1,700 free trees for peoples' yards. It is our goal to continue this standard. City contracts, including for tree planting, are created through a public process that seeks to create fair and equitable opportunities for organizations, including for Black, Indigenous- and people-of-color-based groups, and @BESPortland organizations to become contractors for the City.

We look forward to continuing to grow Portland's tree canopy with Friends of Trees, other community-based organizations, and all Portlanders together, because this vital issue demands attention from everyone.

This looks like a way better use of money than addressing Portland's record gun violence. We know have more homicides than Seattle, San Francisco and Salt Lake City combined. Nice work.
